Re: SALE INSTRUCTIONS

By this memorandum, I am instructing you to undertake the unsolicited sale of the following securities in the referenced account(s) for a total price of $.01 (one cent) for the entire position.

- (a) I understand that, as a service to their clients, Alpine Securities may elect to facilitate sales in cases where they are unable to locate a current, public market for the referenced security. I understand that Alpine Securities has undertaken its best efforts to identify any current market for these securities and that none have been identified. However, I also understand that Alpine Securities makes no representation or guarantee that such a market does not exist or may become available at some time in the future.
- (b) I understand that this sale is irrevocable and final in every respect. It cannot be cancelled once completed, regardless of any future circumstances that may arise.
- (c) I understand that circumstances may arise in the future that cause these securities to have value and that by ordering their sale at this time, I am completely relinquishing any and all claims that I may have to any future value. I understand that Alpine Securities will become the owner of these securities as a result of this transaction and that Alpine Securities may choose to dispose of them and retain any proceeds of future sales they may realize as the owner of the security. I also understand that in selling these shares I am relinquishing my ownership of these shares and, as a result, will forfeit any future participation in other actions related to the issuer of this security in favor of Alpine Securities or any other subsequent purchaser. I further understand that Alpine Securities, as the owner of these shares, may irrevocably gift these securities to a charitable institution of their choosing.
- (d) I understand the importance of securing appropriate tax advice concerning the ramifications of my instructions from a qualified tax advisor. In acting on my own instructions, I indemnify Alpine Securities Corporation, their officers, employees and representatives from any claims that may result from acting on my instructions to sell these securities.

I have read and understand the foregoing and hereby instruct that you sell the following securities at $.01 (one cent) for the entire equity position.
